How the Hill Do You Do That?

Hills, the place where the weak can get stronger and the strong can get reduced to ...

When I started cycling two years ago I wasn't particularly good at climbing. In fact, I would voice that sentiment to other riders as we would start a climb. In the beginning at least I didn't shy away from hills. Now I embrace them. I would like to share things I have picked up along the way.

1. Not all hills suit all riders. You might think you aren't good at all hills. But think, do short steep hills seem easier, where muscles do the work instead of your lungs and heart? Or maybe the long steady climbs suit your aerobic conditioning. I can state that every time I try a new hill it kicks my butt because I don't know how much energy to exert and usually am inefficient. Do I need to charge it with momentum or take it easy because it will take a long sustained effort? Keep after it, the more you do a hill the easier it will seem.

2. Try and find whether you are a spinner or a stand up grinder. To me these are two very different styles of hill climbing. I will not try and address the big gear grinders as that is not my style and hope perhaps in the future one of the other club members can write about that. Spinners: Well my bike came with standard gearing and low crit pack gears. It took me a long time to realize that with the cadence my body seemed to prefer, a compact crank and a little higher gear in back would be more efficient. Triples, well in my opinion they are too heavy and shift too slow. Again in my opinion I find it a shame that so many women's bikes come from the factory with triples. Gee, let's give the women a heavier more complex gearing system.

3. Momentum. Get your bikes derailleur's tuned so that they will shift fast. If you think you will need the small chain ring get into it early before you attack the hill. Once you start up the hill you want to shift smoothly without any interruptions! Why? Well let's say between my bike and I, I'm lugging two hundred pounds up the hill. Break momentum for an instant and it will seem that the weight has doubled or tripled as you have to reaccelerate.

4. Weight, an ugly subject. The less you weigh and the lighter your bike, will all contribute to your climbing abilities. Don't like hills because you have extra weight? Well the hills will take the weight off if you will let them. For bicycle weight; concentrate on things that revolve. It will cost money but you will notice the difference of lighter wheels, tires, tubes,

FRIDAY PICNIC RIDES

We will be conducting road rides again this year to Libertyville's Out to Lunch events held in downtown Cook Park. These are popular outdoor events held every Friday, starting June 24 through August 19. There will be a wide variety of food offerings from 14 food vendors and live musical entertainment. Rides start from Willow Stream Park at 10:00 AM. Once again, The Arlington Heights Bike Club will be meeting us somewhere on the way.

If you can't make the ride, come meet us for lunch. The event runs each Friday from 11:00 AM to 2:00 PM. For more info: mainstreetlibertyville.org/calendar/outtolunch.htm pedals, shoes or crank. The bike itself can be lightened rather easily. Often to save money, companies use heavy seats or seat posts or stems and handlebars. I know I am a techno weight geek but I swear every time my bike gets lighter I can feel it.

5. Realize you will have good days and not so good ones. Notice I did not say bad ones because even a bad day riding is better than almost anything else.

How the hill do you do it? Work hard, but remember to enjoy the ride.

For a more in depth look at how muscles are used in climbing I highly recommend this article in active.com written by John Howard. Here is the link:

We Need Your Help to Start Production of “Share the Road” License Plates

Gov. Pat Quinn signed a law last summer establishing the permanent Illinois year-round Share the Road specialty license plate, but production cannot begin until there are 1,500 plates reserved and, at press time, there are 1,113. If you have been holding off on signing up, please consider signing up now. There is no need to wait for your regular plate’s sticker to expire – your new plates’ sticker will have the same expiration month, regardless of when you get the plates.

New LIB “Share the Road” Jersey and New Resources Available!

The LIB “Share the Road” jersey is now available to buy or with a LIB membership at the $100 or higher level. The jersey front includes LIB’s logo and the back urges motorists to leave at least three feet when passing, per an LIB-initiated state law. The back and sides deliver the “Share the Road—Same Rights, Same Rules” message, with the new license plate on the sleeves.

A Mackinaw Valley Trail Guide has recently been produced detailing a 41-mile route between Peoria and Bloomington. The goals of the guide are to define an interim route that can be used now, while providing momentum for off-road and on-road improvements of the corridor.

LIB also recently revised its popular “Illinois Bicycle Laws” cards to add text on the harassment law, which went into effect Jan. 1. The cards have excerpts from the Illinois Vehicle Code and are sized to fit conveniently in a wallet, purse or pocket.

Tandem hit: killing one, injuring another. But it’s not criminal.

Errol Maul was driving a car while looking at papers in the passenger seat when he struck the tandem bicycle carrying David and Cindy Combs on a rural road near Bondville, on March 7. Currently, under Illinois law, Maul could be charged with either traffic citations or a felony. He received citations for passing a bicyclist by less than 3 feet and for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. The minor charges “reinforced an opinion that our legislators must act to close the gap that exists for prosecution of such cases – as other states are starting to do,” LIB executive director Ed Barsotti said.

LIB will join others looking into other states’ laws and how Illinois law could be amended to make the penalty for killing a cyclist more than a traffic fine. The state legislature has twice reviewed negligent vehicular homicide legislation and has twice failed to approve a bill into law, Barsotti said.

Bike club members: LIB's efforts to improve bicycling are supported by 1,400 members - many belonging to clubs that donate. Become an individual member at www.bikelib.org/join
