NEWSLETTER OF THE WHEELING WHEELMEN

Wheeling MONTHLY MEANDERS

BOARD BANTER

It's been another good year for the Wheelmen. We ended with a total membership of 250 cycling enthusiasts. Our members rode over 167,000 miles this year, the 2nd longest in the past eight years. While the distance is significant, the good times and laughs we enjoyed were great.

The club sponsored four member meetings. Julie Hochstadler of the Chain Link Chicago presented her cycling venture to Israel and reviewed her web site now totaling over 10,000 members. Attorney Mike Keating spoke to us about legal rights for cyclists in Illinois. Ed Barsotti from the League of Illinois Bicyclists presented their safe riding test and review in accordance with State Law. Lastly our annual Harmon volunteer appreciation party. Each of these events were held at the Prospect Heights Schools and thanks to Deb Wilson and Ella Shields for setting these up.

The club's treasury should continue to stay in good shape. We will publish the 2014 report in our February newsletter. As a not for profit organization, we donate to several cycling advocacy organizations and charities. These include the League of American bicyclists, Illinois and Wisconsin Bicycle associations. Also Chicago Active Transportation, Chain Link, Working Bikes, Team World Vision and Toys for Tots.

Yes we had some 53 brave souls who ventured out on our frigid St. Pat's Day ride. The Harmon Hundred had over 650 riders who all commented enthusiastically. A big thanks to Anna & George Swietczak and Roland Cooper for their work and great leadership in making these events a success.

Your Board Members meet regularly to insure everything is running smoothly. Sheri Rosenbaum, Ride Chair and VP; Johannes Smits, Treasurer; Dave Waycie, Secretary; Mitch Rosset, Membership Coordinator and Pam Kaloustian Publicity Chair.

Sheri Rosenbaum did a great job in scheduling weekly rides and lining up the ride chair people and followed up with her weekly communication to the members; special thanks to Ella Shields, the person that keeps us going, reminds us of important dates, insures we are tracking everything and publishes our monthly newsletter; Pam Burke for coordinating our Holiday Party each year, Terri Brei for running our annual Banquet, Jim Boyer for coordinatand managing our Wheelmen website, Emily Qualich in keeping track of our miles and database on event riders, Al & Cindy Schneider for hosting and cooking at our annual picnic and David Newman for hosting the Chili Ride, Tom Wilson designed our new jerseys and Brian Hale who coordinated the sale. Lastly, Len and Reinhilde Geis for assembling the event road signs and contributed the supplies to the club.

AND all those volunteers who make our two invitational rides a great success and serve as ride hosts. The Wheelmen are so blessed to have so many volunteers who continue to step up to the plate making our club so successful All the best, have a great holiday and safe new year.

8 TOP TIPS FOR TRAINING ON YOUR BIKE IN WINTER

Winter can be an exciting time. It may be dark and cold but you can go into that cave and emerge a better, more confident cyclist when you come out of it. So don't ditch the bike, embrace it and take on board these top tips for training on your bike in winter.

1. Mind-set:

Probably the most important thing about winter is your mind-set. Stay positive. Be mindful of what you are trying to achieve, and get busy doing what you need to in order get where you want to be.

2. Goal setting/planning:

If you haven't got one already, get yourself a plan. Don't tie yourself up in knots over it but at least stick a few stakes in the ground for 2015. Write them down. Stick them up all over the house. Tell all your friends. The more you talk about them the more likely you are to take steps to actually make them happen.

3. Time in the saddle:

You have to find a way to keep riding through the winter. Just because you can't ride the same as you would in the summer doesn't give you the excuse to get off your bike. Get organised and get kitted up with the right clothing and accessories for you and your bike. Get waterproofs, get thermals, get lights, prepare your bike for winter and get out there whenever you safely can.

Embrace the cold, wrap up warm and don't procrastinate.

4. Stay active with cross-training:

When it is impossible to ride your bike stay as active as you can by embracing any opportunity to cross train. Exercising regularly is the best way to keep you feeling like a cyclist in training. Other good habits will follow. Stay away from the sofa and take-aways at all costs and find other things to do.

5. Be proactive with problems:

If you have any niggles or weaknesses that need addressing, now is the perfect time to figure them out and get them sorted. Seek out professional help and advice and get your bike set up correctly, get yourself some massage or physio, and make time for those rehab/prehab exercises.

6. Nutrition:

Eat well to stay healthy. Winter comfort food can be healthy stews, roasts and soups. Relish the opportunity to come in from a winter ride to enjoy a healthy hot meal, and the occasional hot pudding. Spend some of your enforced indoor time honing your domestic skills to find some simple wholesome meals that you can easily prepare for after training.

7. Party Pooping:

Winter time can be party time, and of course you want to have fun. But be careful about burning the candle at both ends too often. If you have a big night out, don't expect to get up the following morning for training as usual. Instead, be realistic, be kind to your body and rest up and let your body recover. Training on too much alcohol and not enough sleep is a recipe for illness and illness is the enemy of winter training.

8. Sleep, rest, and hibernate:

With all this being said about what you can do, it's worth remembering that winter is the perfect time to get plenty of rest. Sleeping enough is vital to getting the best out of your winter and boosting your immune system to keep the bugs at bay. It's dark out there because you are meant to sleep more, so get to bed on time and sleep soundly in the knowledge that you are putting energy points in the tank.
